

Film screening and presentation
by filmmaker, David Martinez:

500 Miles to Babylon

Sunday, November 12, 2006

7:00 p.m.

St. John's Episcopal Church

60 Kent Street, St. Paul

Produced by Graffiti Films, 500 Miles to Babylon is a one-hour documentary film about Iraq under U.S. occupation. Narrated by filmmaker David Martinez, using footage shot in Iraq during the past year threaded with graphically animated archival sequences to provide historic context, the film addresses the current war not simply as a conflict over petroleum profits or a scheme to fill a company's coffers, but as part of a larger American imperial project.

Through impromptu interviews, glimpses of daily life, still photographs, and footage of car-bombs, demonstrations, night-time graffiti artists, Sufi rituals, and the celebrations following Saddam's capture, 500 Miles To Babylon reveals the complex situation in contemporary Iraq through a personal lens. Far from being a simple anti-war movie, 500 Miles attempts to illustrate the terrible complexity of a people brutalized by a dictatorship, and the catastrophic results when that system is changed overnight by shortsighted military means.

Cost:

A minimum donation of $5 per person is requested, but not required.

Sponsored by:

Merriam Park and Crocus Hill/West 7th Neighbors for Peace

More Information:

www.mnneighbors4peace.org • www.graffitifilms.com
info@mppeace.org • (651) 641-7592 or (651) 647-0580

Film screening and presentation
by filmmaker, David Martinez:

500 Miles to Babylon

Sunday, November 12, 2006

7:00 p.m.

St. John's Episcopal Church

60 Kent Street, St. Paul

Produced by Graffiti Films, 500 Miles to Babylon is a one-hour documentary film about Iraq under U.S. occupation. Narrated by filmmaker David Martinez, using footage shot in Iraq during the past year threaded with graphically animated archival sequences to provide historic context, the film addresses the current war not simply as a conflict over petroleum profits or a scheme to fill a company's coffers, but as part of a larger American imperial project.

Through impromptu interviews, glimpses of daily life, still photographs, and footage of car-bombs, demonstrations, night-time graffiti artists, Sufi rituals, and the celebrations following Saddam's capture, 500 Miles To Babylon reveals the complex situation in contemporary Iraq through a personal lens. Far from being a simple anti-war movie, 500 Miles attempts to illustrate the terrible complexity of a people brutalized by a dictatorship, and the catastrophic results when that system is changed overnight by shortsighted military means.

Cost:

A minimum donation of $5 per person is requested, but not required.

Sponsored by:

Merriam Park and Crocus Hill/West 7th Neighbors for Peace

More Information:

www.mnneighbors4peace.org • www.graffitifilms.com
info@mppeace.org • (651) 641-7592 or (651) 647-0580